Guide to Government

44TH LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT

Message from Senator Long

Dear Friends:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the privilege of serving as your state senator. I realize that my vote represents your voice, and I plan to use that vote to represent your interests in the 2002 Legislative Session.

In these busy and stressful times, government sometimes seems distant and unapproachable, but, ultimately, we are all here to serve you. You deserve prompt, courteous and effective service from government in return for your hard-earned tax dollars.

In response to numerous requests, I would like you to have this updated 44th District Government Guide, which includes contact information for elected officials, government offices and state agencies in our district. If you are looking for information that is not contained in this guide, please consult your phone book or call our toll-free Legislative Hotline at 1-800-562-6000.

Please call my Olympia office at 360-786-7686 or e-mail me at: long_je@leg.wa.gov if you need further assistance. Throughout the legislative session, you may visit my website at <http://www.src.wa.gov/members/long.htm> for up-to-date information on key issues I am pursuing.

Respectfully,

Jeanine Long
State Senator

P.S. Citizens can also gain easy access to government information and services on the Internet at <http://access.wa.gov>.

Voter Information

Qualifications

You are eligible to vote if, by election day, you are: 1) a citizen of the U.S.; 2) a legal resident of the state of Washington (no specific length of residency required); 3) at least 18 years of age; and 4) registered to vote.

Authorized registrars are available at all city halls, public schools, fire stations, libraries and many other public and community centers.

Precinct registration files are closed 30 days prior to a primary or general election. However, a qualified voter may register not later than 15 days prior to a primary or general election if they register in person with the county auditor, and upon registering immediately apply for an absentee ballot. The voter then may only vote by absentee ballot. Qualified electors also may register by mail in Washington state by requesting a form from their county auditor.

When voters move to another county, legally change their name, or fail to vote within a 24-month period or in the most recent presidential election, they must re-register before an election.

When moving within a county, voters may change their registration before a voter registrar or may transfer their registration by calling the Snohomish County Auditor's office 425-388-3444.

For further information on registration, voting and elections, contact the Snohomish County Auditor's office at 425-388-3444.

Understanding the Legislature

How Your Voice Can Be Heard

Washington has one of the most open legislatures in the country. Every bill being considered by the House or Senate must be discussed in open hearings before the appropriate committees. The general public is welcome and encouraged to attend committee hearings and to testify on issues important to them.

While words like "hearing" and "testify" may sound forbidding, they simply represent your opportunity to come to Olympia and tell lawmakers how you feel before action is taken on an issue.

For more information on how to testify effectively, write or call the State Capitol Information Center, 14th & Capitol Way, Olympia, WA 98504, 360-586-3460.

You can leave messages supporting or opposing bills or issues for your state representatives, senator and the governor by calling toll-free 1-800-562-6000, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. When you call, be prepared to leave your name, address and telephone number so we can contact you after receiving your message.

It's helpful if you are specific about the issue or bill you are calling about, and who should receive your message. If you don't get through the first time, please try again.

The Washington State Legislature

Washington has two legislative bodies representing 49 legislative districts. The House of Representatives has 98 members serving two-year terms. The Senate has 49 members serving four-year terms. There are two representatives and one senator from each legislative district, comprised of nearly 110,000 people.

The Legislature convenes in regular session each year on the second Monday in January. The sessions are constitutionally limited to 105 days in odd-numbered years and 60 days in even-numbered years. Extraordinary or special sessions may be called by the governor, or the Legislature may call itself into session by a two-thirds vote of both houses.

Legislative Information on the Internet

In the interest of improved public access to legislative information, the Washington State Legislature has created the LEGInfo public access service on the Internet at www.leg.wa.gov.

LEGInfo provides three familiar ways for Internet users to access a wide variety of legislative information:

- World Wide Web (WWW)
- Anonymous File Transfer Protocol (FTP)
- E-Mail

Information is provided on a timely basis and at no cost to customers.

What Types of Information Are Available?

LEGInfo provides the following information for the current session:

- Bills—The full text of all versions of each bill. (In this document “bills” refers to all measures under consideration by the Legislature.)
- Amendments—The text of all amendments received at the rostrum for consideration on the floor.
- Initiatives and Referenda—Full text.
- Bill Reports—The text of all bill reports prepared by committee staff for each bill that is reported by committee. Only the current version of the House Bill Report, Senate Bill Report, and Final Bill Report for each bill is available.
- Digests—The text of the summaries of bills prepared by the Code Reviser's Office. Only the current version of each digest is available.

- Bill Histories—A chronological listing of all the actions that have taken place on each bill.
- Sponsor Reports—For each member or requester, a listing in numerical order of the bills that member has sponsored. The listing includes a brief description and the current status of each bill.
- Roll Calls—For each bill that is voted upon on the floor, a listing of the roll calls. The report indicates the chamber, the date, a description of what is being voted upon (for example, an amendment or final passage), the vote totals, and the names of those who voted in the minority or were absent or excused.
- Member Information—Members' names, office addresses, office telephone numbers, committee assignments, and some Internet addresses.
- Committee Schedules—The daily and weekly committee schedules as prepared by the House Office of Program Research and Senate Committee Services.
- Calendars—Combined calendar for each chamber for each day. The calendar for each chamber lists the bills that will be introduced, as well as the bills that are on second reading, third reading, in dispute, and in conference committee. There are also monthly schedules; a session calendar that lists the calendar dates, the associated legislative days, and legislative cutoff dates; and a monthly calendar of Capitol Campus events.
- Committee Reports—The bills reported out of a particular committee on a given day.
- Daily Status—The current status of all bills under consideration by the Legislature.
- Topical Index—A list of topics and associated bills.
- Ethics Opinions—Full text.
- Legislative District Lookup—Enter your zip code to determine which district you live in and who represents you. You may also view maps and information about the district.
- Legislative Agency Information—View general information about the House and Senate, as well as other legislative agencies, boards, and statutory and standing committees.

How a Bill Becomes a Law

1) A bill may be introduced by a member in either the Senate or House of Representatives, but the procedure by which a bill becomes a law is much the same wherever the bill originates.

After a bill is filed with the Secretary of the Senate, it is given a number, and unless a majority demands it be read in full, it is read the first time by title only in open session of the Senate. It is then referred to a Senate standing committee.

2) The committee studies the bill and often holds public hearings on it. The committee will then meet to consider the information it has gathered. It may approve the bill with or without amendments, draft a new bill on the same subject incorporating the desired changes, or take no action.

(If you feel strongly about a bill or issue, please consider testifying before a legislative committee. You can usually offer a unique perspective that is not always presented by officials who normally testify at committee hearings.)

3) The committee is now ready to report back to the Senate. If the majority is in favor of the bill as introduced or with certain amendments, the chairman recommends the bill for passage. The committee report is read in open session of the Senate, and the bill is then referred to the Rules Committee.

4) After the bill has been recommended for passage by the standing committee to which it was originally referred, the Rules Committee can either place it on the second reading calendar for debate before the entire body, or take no action.

5) When the bill appears on the calendar for second reading, it is subject to amendment. It is then returned to the Rules Committee where it must receive a favorable vote before being placed on the third reading calendar for final passage. This referral to Rules is often bypassed by vote of the Senate, and the bill is placed on final passage immediately following its second reading. Depending upon the degree of controversy, debate may last a few minutes, to several hours, or even several days.

6) After passing the Senate, the bill will go through an almost identical procedure in the House. If the bill is passed by the House but amended by that body, the Senate must concur with the amendments. If the Senate does not accept the change in the bill, a conference committee may be requested to resolve the difference.

7) If the conference committee cannot agree, a free conference committee may be appointed with power to rewrite the amendment or even write an entirely new bill. When the conferees agree, they report to their respective houses. Their report is either accepted or rejected without any changes.

8) If the report is accepted by both houses, the bill is signed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House in open sessions of each body. It is then sent to the governor for his approval.

I would like to hear what you think about the bills moving through the Legislature. If you want more information about a particular bill, please call, send an e-mail or leave a message at the toll-free legislative hotline. My office can send you bill summaries, answer questions, or put you in touch with legislative and agency experts.

How to Display the US Flag

The tragic events of Sept. 11 have prompted a new patriotism across our country. As we look for ways to express our love for our country, I'd like to share with you some tips on how to properly display the US Flag.

- When the US Flag flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of a building, the union of the flag (the white stars on the blue background) should be placed at the peak of the staff unless the flag is at half-staff.
- When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left.
- When displayed in a window, the flag should be displayed in the same way, with the union to the left of the observer in the street.
- The flag should never be displayed with the union down, except as a signal of dire distress in instances of extreme danger to life or property.
- The flag should never touch anything beneath it, such as the ground, the floor, water, or merchandise.
- The flag should never be fastened, displayed, used, or stored in such a manner as to permit it to be easily torn, soiled, or damaged in any way.
- The flag should never be used as wearing apparel, bedding, or drapery. It should never be festooned, drawn back, nor up, in folds, but always allowed to fall free.
- Bunting of blue, white and red, always arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle, and the red below, should be used for covering a speaker's desk, draping the front of the platform, and for decoration in general.
- The flag should never be used for advertising purposes in any manner whatsoever. It should not be embroidered on such articles as cushions or handkerchiefs and the like, printed or otherwise impressed on paper napkins or boxes or anything that is designed for temporary use and discard.
- The flag represents a living country and is itself considered a living thing. Therefore, the lapel flag pin being a replica, should be worn on the left lapel near the heart.

Guide to Government

44TH LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT

Message from Senator Long

Dear Friends:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the privilege of serving as your state senator. I realize that my vote represents your voice, and I plan to use that vote to represent your interests in the 2002 Legislative Session.

In these busy and stressful times, government sometimes seems distant and unapproachable, but, ultimately, we are all here to serve you. You deserve prompt, courteous and effective service from government in return for your hard-earned tax dollars.

In response to numerous requests, I would like you to have this updated 44th District Government Guide, which includes contact information for elected officials, government offices and state agencies in our district. If you are looking for information that is not contained in this guide, please consult your phone book or call our toll-free Legislative Hotline at 1-800-562-6000.

Please call my Olympia office at 360-786-7686 or e-mail me at: long_je@leg.wa.gov if you need further assistance. Throughout the legislative session, you may visit my website at <http://www.src.wa.gov/members/long.htm> for up-to-date information on key issues I am pursuing.

Respectfully,

Jeanine Long
State Senator

P.S. Citizens can also gain easy access to government information and services on the Internet at <http://access.wa.gov>.
